"IDEAL LOVE"

Formerly Known as "DAD'S GIRL."

(Synopsis)

OCT -5 1921

On a small farm on the outskirts of a Pennsylvania town lives David Hoskins, who for many years has been both father and mother to his two children. His son, Dave, is his favorite, and though Hoskins is poor, Dave has had a good education and has always dressed well, until he feels too good for his poor surroundings. The daughter, Mulvina, takes care of her father and brother impartially. Dave one day listens to the lure of the city as held out by a mysterious visitor to the town, and goes away, leaving a note, saying that he is going to make a name for himself. Just at this time coal is discovered on the Hoskins land, and the great grief in the old man's heart is that he cannot find Dave to spend the money on. Mulvina and her father try to make themselves presentable in accordance with their new wealth. The start the stranger helped Dave to was a start toward prison, for he was a burglar, and Dave was caught in their first job, and sentenced to several years in the penitentiary. He writes to Mulvina telling her to tell their father he is dead, as it would not be so great a blow.

The next summer, Mulvina and her father go to a summer resort, and the girl falls in love with Stephen Wainwright, only son of a wealthy man. Dave escapes from penitentiary and the man who started him on his road of disgrace finds him and orders him to rob the hotel where his sister happens to be staying. Dave wants to go straight, but the other man threatens to send him back to the penitentiary if he does not obey.

Dave is interrupted in his attempted robbery of the hotel, and in escaping finds his way accidentally into his sister's room. She tells him to hide in a certain hut on a cliff until the next morning, and promises to bring him money so he can get away.

The next morning Mulvina goes to the hut, and the villain follows her. The villain and Dave fight, and both fall over the edge of the cliff and are killed. Wainwright, who has been jealous and suspicious of Mulvina on account of her visit to the hut, learns the truth, and helps her conceal the facts from her father. Mulvina and Wainwright marry.
